Tubercular Soldiers Being Restored to Active Life

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Officials of the Dominion Hospital's convalescent state that on August 20 there were in Canada 231 soldiers back from the front undergoing treatment for long trouble, and 180 more are expected from overseas within the next six weeks. For soldiers who have fallen victim to tuberculosis there are several special sanatoria, but more will be required.

Speshial contributions of this kind to the national cause have been made by public-spirited Canadians, and the growth of the need will doubtless stimulate fresh offers to meet it.

Nearly all the convalescent institutions of the Military Hospitals' commission have been generously devoted to this use by the donors, free of rent; and in some cases the loans include furniture and other equipment.

While many of these institutions were private houses, others being in public buildings and others again were hotels. For example, there are the Deer Lodge hotel in Winnipeg, with accommodation for 150, and the Ogden hotel at Calgary, but fully equipped for the use of 140 men.

In the provinces of Quebec, some months ago, the Laurentians inn at the Agathe was generously lent to the commission by H. Lesne McGillion. About five hundred tuberculous soldiers are now in residences there and at the neighboring Laurentians sanatorium under the same medical officer. With the thorough and enlightened treatment developed by modern science, many soldiers are being restored to useful citizenship who would otherwise have been lost to the country.

We acknowledge with thanks receipt of $50.00 from the West Canadian Collieries Co. this week.

Only one more shipment can be sent in before the end of the business year—September 30th. This shipment will have to be ready by the 25th inst., at least, and we are still short 175 articles of the 10,000 mark we hoped to reach by the end of the second year. These men and women workers have been making Herculean efforts to reach the mark. What about others who might be helping?

Wedding Bells

DREWART-CLELAND

A quiet wedding took place at the Presbyterian manse, Cowley, on Tuesday, September 5th, when George Davidson Drewart was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Alberta Cleland, second daughter of the late Miss Cleland, of Lacrosse, Quebec. The bride appeared charmingly attired in a navy blue travelling suit, trimmed with cream lace, and wore a large picture hat of black velvet trimmed with gold lace and moss roses. After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. M. Chalmers, B.A., the happy couple left for Medicine Hat, where they will spend a few days with the groom's brother. We all unite in wishing the newly-married couple a long, prosperous and happy married life.

C.P.R. Telegraph Inaugurate Day Letter Service

J. McMillan, who has initiated many notable improvements since he became general manager of the C.P.R. telegraph eighteen months ago, has decided to inaugurate an important service en route to Canada over the land and ten thousand miles of wire under his immediate control, namely the day letter, which will now be sent between points in Canada on the Canadian Pacific system at a rate very much reduced as compared with the usual commercial rush telegram. Mr. McMillan is confident that many of those who send telegrams would be quite satisfied if these arrived on the same day, whereas as a portion of the cost of the rush telegram is due to the cost of speedy delivery. The day letter of fifty words will be rated at one and a half times the cost of a regular rush message of ten words and can still bring an answer the same day, which is as quick as many people desire. There are sixteen hundred C.P.R. telegraph offices throughout Canada, at each of which the service will be in force, so that this will be a Dominion wide service stretching from Lonsburg, Nova Scotia, to Victoria, B.C. Messages will be taken in either French or English, code words not being permissible.—Valcan Advocate.

Frank Happenings

The shortage of labor throughout The Pass is being felt severely.

J. C. Boudreau and family have returned from an extended visit to Calgary.

Rev. W. T. Young and family return this week end from a two months' stay at Millet.

Mrs. P. M. Sherwin has left for a month's visit to her father's ranch near Swift Current.

Jack Crawford has returned here to accept a position as fire boss and expanding at the re-opened shaft mine.

The store of the Fernie Mountain Supply Co. has been converted into a pool hall and soft drinks emporium.

A large number of Frank people attended the play put on at the Blaimore opera house on Thursday night.

The foundation for the new school is about completed, and work of construction will likely commence next week.

Work on the Methodist parish hall is going ahead favorably. The building occupies a prominent position and has a fine appearance.

Rev. Arthur Barner, superintendent of Methodist missions, conducted the Methodist church service at the Sanatorium on Sunday evening last.

Pending the completion of the new school, the poolroom of the Union hotel has been secured, where several classes are being held by Principal Turner.

A sale of work and tea will be conducted on the lawn at the residence of Mrs. J. H. McDonald on Wednesday next at 3 p.m., for the benefit of the Frank Methodist church.

The work of shingling the roof of the Sanatorium hotel is progressing under the supervision of D. A. Sinclair, of Blaimore. It is expected that the building will be in readiness to be taken over as a hospital by the Government on the 15th.

The Rebekahs of Coleman intend holding a dance and social in the Coleman opera house on the night of Wednesday, September the 20th.

Bellevue Oddfellows are making arrangements for the celebration of their second anniversary, to take place during the first week in October.

The regular meeting of the Blaimore town council will take place on Thursday night next.

Some Market Problems

Agricultural Industry the Only Large Industry That Is Un-organized

There is a steadily old adage about making a garment to suit the body which has a practical application to farmers.

It has to do with market conditions. Canada is a small country with a large area almost as great as that of the entire continent of Europe. Her population, however, is probably somewhat less than that of the single city of London.

Farmers in the vicinity of large cities have a great advantage in the matter of where crops they are to grow. Many farms in the British Isles are so situated that they are within market distance of several cities, each having a population of over a hundred thousand people. The farmers can raise the crops which their lands produce better than they are sure of a market for whatever they have produced.

Such is not the case in Canada. Our immense stretches of sparsely settled territory render market gardening, for instance, an unprofitable occupation to but very few farmers.

Small fruit and vegetable can, however, be carried to market. But the risks are great as is also the expense. Farmers who attempt to raise crops having greater keeping qualities and a less fluctuating market value.

It is the best policy for Canadian farmers to produce crops which will weather exportation. Wheat, rye, oats, dairy products, and meats are of this class. Of course a home market exists for these things, but the producer must be able to sell his produce at a profit.

Efficiency is the basis of modern business success. Without it no business is worthy of its name. In all things are possible. Efficiency in marketing is absolutely necessary for the proper distribution of farm products. Organizations for co-operation among farmers and producers meet for the purpose of making the most efficient use of the market.

By securing better transportation facilities, which will result in a more efficient distribution of farm products more expeditious and economical.

2. By scientific marketing of farm products, which will open up and develop new markets for their returns.

3. By standardizing the packing and installing uniform packages.

4. By obtaining a monopoly of the market, which will enable the grower to keep the exact amount in regard to distribution and prices.

5. By the co-operative purchase of supplies, such as packers, equipment, seeds, grain, etc., and spraying outfits, etc.

The agricultural industry is the only large industry in Canada which is unorganized, and as a result it naturally falls prey to the monopolies in its productions.

It is a very evident fact that farm methods are improving and the farmer is a better producer than he was years ago, but it is not the same with the market. The farmer has gained through education, better equipment, and more intelligent methods.

It has been altogether lost because he has not been able to dispose of his products or buy supplies and equipment as cheaply as he could.

In some countries the results of co-operative business methods are marvellous. Denmark, for instance, is a world famous and rich country.

There have been remarkable progress, simply because the farmers have learned to sell their products in a businesslike way and to meet the requirements of the market.

They give their attention to production, but they also see that their products are sold intelligently by their own representatives.

The farmer cannot find everything about marketing and distribution. A hundred farmers can hire a market and can afford to handle their products and to increase their returns.

There are several essentials to successful co-operation. The first is sufficient material in any community or territory to carry on a business. It is useless to co-operate if there is not a sufficient supply of one or more of the products to make an organization of any worth while.

It is advantageous for the co-operating parties to have a small district. It is much easier for a number of farmers to co-operate in a community to organize for the purchase or sale of their products than it is for the farmers scattered over a large territory.

It would be well to consider the growing of one or two special crops by all members of the co-operative societies. This geographic specialization means that a certain number of farmers are the growers of one sort of apple, or berries, or cherries, etc., and that they pool their product very much better than if raising many different kinds of crops.

No organization is automatic or will run itself. A co-operative society cannot be as well managed by a board of directors as a business. It is a business, because every man in a co-operative organization is interested in the work of his association and every man thinks he knows as much about business as any other man, sometimes a little better.

Seized British Aviator Takes Revenge Upon German Officer

A Have correspondent sends the following: A young British aviator was decorated in front of the aviators for a flight accomplished in company with a German officer. The aviator had been obliged to descend within the German lines, and was made a prisoner by a German officer. The aviator, who had fallen, the latter converted the idea of making a prisoner take him in his aeroplane for a flight over the allied lines in order to make observations, which would not be disturbed by anti-aircraft fire, as the aviator would be killed by the machine gun fire. The German officer reformed his order with a revolver, and the aviator accordingly reformed his seat in the machine and strapped himself in securely. The German officer, with his pistol in his hand, took the aviator in his hand, the couple then flew towards the allied lines, the aviator making a number of evolutions to the German officer. The aviator, who was alone, the German officer having for once been insufficiently satisfied with the aviator's flight, quickly as possible into the British lines, where he received a revolver which took the form of a decoration.

Saskatchewan Live Stock Sales

Sheep and Swine Men Planning Big Things for October and November

Men who are anxious to get in the sheep breeding game will be glad to learn that at a recent joint executive meeting of the Saskatchewan Sheep and Swine Breeders' Association, it was decided to hold a series of sheep sales in one week later, Nov. 1 next.

The Saskatchewan sales have steadily increased in popularity, and are now among the best buyers and sellers of the live stock branch in the province.

The sales are held in the last three weeks of the year. Judging from the results of the last year, the sales are likely to be very successful.

Trees as Snow Guards

Railways Planting Trees to Protect Lines from Drifting Snow

The railway companies are taking an increasing interest in the planting of trees and shrubs to secure better control of drifting snow and drifting sand, both of which interfere seriously with the operation of trains.

East of Montreal near Vauchas, in Quebec, light drifting sand has given trouble to the Canadian Pacific Railway since the very first snow was blown up. Hot boxes resulted to plowing stock and passengers suffered from the dust.

The ordinary snow plows and snow fences were covered by the sand, and cattle could stray across the track. Snow fences were used to some advantage, but in a bad season these would be almost covered over.

In 1915 the number of grasses, including Bromus, were planted, but perished from the heat, which is excessive on these exposed sand dunes. This spring, 3,500 cuttings of cottonwood (Populus deltoides) and 1,000 one-year transplanted jack pines were planted.

The trees and cuttings were in the ground a month showed that approximately 95 per cent. of the cottonwood and 100 per cent. of the jack pines were growing.

The trees were planted in rows two and one-half feet apart, the distance between the rows being 150 feet. The jack pine was planted in rows six feet apart, distance between the rows being 150 feet.

The Potato

Early History Associated With the Irishman

When Sir Walter Raleigh decorated his already over-decorated potato with a gold chain, people suspected that back of all there was a mild form of lunacy.

But when he ate the tubers and also recommended others to do the same they changed their minds, that is they no longer considered him a mild form.

The potato belongs to the same family of plants as the deadly nightshade, which is extremely poisonous. It is taken for granted that one member of a family were guilty of crime the whole lot were eligible for punishment. Consequently the potato was condemned.

Could Sir Walter have looked forward two or three hundred years and have seen his pet tuber taking first place in popularity among vegetables could he have known that in the twentieth century it would form a quarter of the food eaten by the white race, he would have bared his head in amazement.

It is a fact that the potato has been used to soothe the somewhat peevish temper of the Spaniards, who have been used to the potato since the time of the Spanish gold, but upon the whole it is a very good thing.

The potato is put to a greater variety of uses than any other vegetable. It is used in many ways, and it is a fact that the potato has been used to soothe the somewhat peevish temper of the Spaniards, who have been used to the potato since the time of the Spanish gold, but upon the whole it is a very good thing.

Our Debt of Honor to Serbia

In a recent public speech the speaker was graphically described as "the people who lived in the pathway between the east and the west, had protected Christianity for the west through the ages against untold greed for power and conquest; the people who labored with the lowly home that their freedom should be side by side in the trenches with their men that home and all it meant to them, their freedom and liberty, might be theirs." As the result of the latter state between friend and foe, they had been for centuries drawn into wars which were not wars of protection of power and property, but of ideals and liberty. This last and greatest war, which had ravaged their country, had a peculiar interest for citizens of the British Empire. To those able to think impartially and politically, the preservation of Serbia meant the presence of a guardian of Britain's interests in the east. At the same time, to everyone, British or not, it meant the saving of, and, later, the restoration of a proud, simple-living, home-loving people to their native land and the power to rebuild their ravaged nation.

"We must make sure Serbia is alive. She must rebuild her homes and her simple peasant life. We were all thrilled with the stories of Belgian refugees and their experiences, but Belgium had their country in summer wastes and they had three rich countries, France, England and Holland, willing to take them in."

It is a wonder there are any of those people left alive after the horrors of last winter. They had to cross the Albanian mountains with all the dangers attendant on a journey over such barren wildernesses for old men and women and children. The pathways were strewn with the dead bodies of their countrymen who had suffered by the way. Their journey lasted for months sometimes, and their destinations, when reached, were countries even poorer than their own. Of one party of 20,000 only 8,000 reached a friendly shore. The people of Montenegro suffered much the same fate.

"For those who dared to defy the invader and remain, we know what happened. The houses were needed to shelter soldiers, and as for the women—we all know what has happened the women of any country German armies have ravaged. Thousands of French, Belgian, Serbian, and women of other races today are waiting themselves dead instead of alive. We cannot do anything for them now. Only God and our armies can avenge their wrongs, but we can help those in exile in Greece, Russia, Italy, or southern France to keep alive until the end of the war. The women and children, on whom depended the future of Serbia, must be looked after, and this can only be done by a steady effort."

The British Serbian Relief Fund is searching for thousands of refugees, concentrated in the different camps, and in addition is sending regular supplies of food and clothing to the 60,000 Serbian prisoners; it provides also for 100 children lately arrived in Oxford.

The Canadian Serbian Relief Committee for Canada all funds, etc., to the British Committee, and also to the Montenegrin Government now located in Bordeaux, France.

Contributions, which are urgently needed, may be sent to the Treasurer, Rev. Cos Clark, 300 Rittenburg Avenue, West, Calgary, or to the President, Mr. J. S. Doube, Department of Natural Resources Building, Calgary.

The department of public works should perhaps be consulted for their plans to better conditions for the pedestrians of the Crown's West Pass. A Coleman man has been appointed, who engages Coleman men and teams to work on the Slide road. The outfit leave Coleman on or about 8 a.m. and reach the site of operations about 10, leaving for home again about 4 p.m. The work that is being accomplished in a fortnight by this method, could be accomplished by less men, locally, in a week. The public are paying dearly for this work, and should rise in protest against such scheme.

New Mexico boasts of having the largest dam in the world. We know of some pessimists, locally, who can "damn" the whole world.

The Prosperity of a Community depends upon the success of its Merchants

Are we, as a community, pulling together? Or, are we pulling in opposite directions? Organization is the great community need of the day. Without organization men and women are apt to sink below the level of mules. Even mules, in times of danger of panic have been known to co-operate. They sometimes kick together. If it were given to mules to think, they would wonder at the ways of men. That men and women, living and working in the same community, should refuse to co-operate, is one of the riddles of civilization. The only benefits we can share with our neighbors. Individual benefits count for little. It is the co-operative efforts that bring everlasting good. Good roads, factories, better schools, good markets can only be secured when all pull together. Every man, woman and child in this community should give one hour each day to community work. But don't wait for someone else to start it. There is work for you to do, so begin with yourself

Some decades ago, when the present Kaiser was a youth, he was on a visit to his grandmother, Queen Victoria, and while walking in the grounds of a certain royal residence, he was boasting of his rise and the future greatness of the Hohenzollern house. Among the ladies in the party was one whose powers of clairvoyance had often greatly astonished her friends. Shortly after the prince had made this boast, this lady, pointing to an ornamental lake by the banks of which they were standing, said: "When they cut hay from the bottom of this lake, the Hohenzollern dynasty comes to an end." For certain reasons the lake has been filled since the war began, and this year grass has grown plentifully, and hay has been cut.

Complaints have been made to the school trustees that children under the age of seven years have been or are attending the public school, contrary to a rule adopted last year placing the age limit at seven years for beginners. Parents, in order to gain admission for their children, have been known to tell the children to lie, and as a consequence many children have been admitted who are considerably under the age required. In order to avoid any further difficulties, the board has decided that all beginners must produce birth or age certificates, and those who have been attending, and who it may be considered are under the required age, will be discharged unless certificates can be shown that they are not less than seven years.

Ridd has been in Rhodesia for ten years as one of the pioneer farmers and big game hunters."

[Lieut. Ridd, above referred to, is a brother of Mr. Frank Wright, of Blairmore.]

The weather men did not look favorably upon Blairmore on Labor Day, and the big celebration planned to take place under the auspices of the local union had to be postponed. A large crowd of people gathered in town, however, and visited many of the beauty spots which Blairmore has an endless variety, and considerable activity was in evidence throughout the evening at the hotels and restaurants. At night two dances were started at 8 o'clock, one at the opera house and the other at the Alberta hotel, both of which were well patronized and voted enjoyable affairs.

The manner in which our people turned out to see the play put on by the young people of Coleman, well demonstrates what opportunities are in store for local talent to offset the so widely advertised travelling opera companies. The play throughout was voted superb, and in fairness to every participant we refrain from making any special mention of individuals. The play was "All on account of Polly," and we feel sure that if ever the talented Coleman troupe decide to revisit Blairmore that they will be well repaid for their venture. We understand that the gross proceeds of Thursday night's entertainment amounted to close to $100. After the concert about forty couples engaged in dancing, accompanied by the ever popular Stokes' orchestra, and a most enjoyable time was brought to a close at 2 a.m.

The bachelor editor of the Chattanooga World says: "I would have been disappointed, two or three years ago, for a writer of society events to mention a lady's stockings or even hint at her wearing such things, and now the color of the hose is mentioned as frequently as the color of the dress. It is all a matter of convention. If short skirts and no stockings were fashionable the society writers would comment, and be expected to comment on the pink legs and rounded calves of ladies and society belles."

Robert Connolly, of Bellevue, paid Blairmore a visit on Saturday last and met up with a large number of his old friends. Mr. Connolly is now in his seventy-seventh year and is still quite hale and hearty and feels as good as he did twenty-five years ago, when he set the pioneer of the Crows' Nest Pass. Twenty-five years ago Mr. Connolly's optimism regarding the future of the Crows' Nest Pass was just as being realized today, and to him the development of the pass seems but the initial of great developments in the future.
